

HEAD AND HEART

Sonia Chopra from Delhi tells us why she got herself the S60 D5

THINGS YOU SEE and do as a kid leave a lasting impression, and sometimes they also affect you as an adult. Sonia Chopra from Delhi would agree. As a kid, she would get driven around in her uncle's Volvo and when it came to buy a car, she picked a Copper Metallic S60 D5. She reminisces, "They weren't a common sight those days, and they're not very common today either."

Ask her about why she got herself a Volvo S60 and you can tell the decision was made as much from the heart as it was from the head. "I saw an advertisement in the paper, and I have not seen them advertise too much. So I called the showroom and they promptly sent a car for me to test drive. I drove it and found it to be very sturdy – and would you just see how good it looks. Other cars are just too common, and some others I checked out don't have enough features. The Volvo, on the other hand, has it all, and I simply love the copper colour."

She continues, "It's the perfect size; not too big to be problematic in traffic, or too small, and the rear seat are very comfortable. It gives you such good support on long drives. I usually travel within the city and everywhere it goes people turn to look at it. Even friends and relatives who visit us liked the car when they drove it, and realise how much value for money it gives you." The S60 boasts of the best safety features, including Dynamic Stability and Traction Control and the unique laser-assisted automatic brakes.

She likes to help out her husband, who is the chairman of Haryana City Gas Limited. "I try to help him out with work and drive down to his office occasionally, and I enjoy the sound system, which is very effective. Everything is so easy, and I especially like the way the engine starts when you insert the key. Then there are the headlights that turn as you turn the steering wheel, which again is a great feature. The car also looks stunning at night with its lights on." Such attention to the minor details can only come from a keen driver and Sonia tells us that she has been driving for more than 17 years now.

As you can see, Sonia only has praise for the car and is another one of the many satisfied Volvo owners around the world.
